WICHITA MARKETS.

Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards for 24 hours—80 cattle, 1,130 hogs.—The cattle receipts are running very light on account of the break in price and light demand in eastern marketé. The export demand being almost at a standstill. Choice light butcher grades are the favorite sellers now and prices on this grade of stuff rules steady to firm. Hog market opened 2 1-2 cents higher than yesterday's close, owing to an error in a telegram from Kansas City, quoting the market higher, when it was in fact lower. The market sold off to $3.65 before noon and $3.62 1-2 purchased most of the afternoon receipts. The close was steady.

WICHITA LIVE STOCK MARKET. WICHITA, Kan., May IL CATTLE.

Receipts 50; shipments 100.

The receipts are running light on account of the late break in the eastern markets, and the lees demand on heavy cattle. The expect trade has got a black eye for the present. Choice butchers grades seem to be the farvette sellers at present and prices rule sleady on this kind of cattle. There seems to be quite a demand all the time for native feeding steers and stockers, and at good fagures. The market closed fairly steady. Chicago market show and dull and Kaneas Chy closed steady.

TOLD BY A LION TAMER.

Hamburg Mart for Wild Beasts. Cleveland for more than a year had a genuine lion tamer. He came without herald or the blast of trumpets, and when he found that there were no leasts of the jungle upon which to exercise his powers he settled down very quietly as a mechanic. He was not fond of boasting of his achievements and his peculiar vocation was known only to a small circle of friends. His name is Oscar Scheikron and he was employed by the Schneider & Tren-kamp company. He received an offer from Capt. Paul Boyton and he left this city for Chicago to train a number of sea lions for the noted voyager. On the eve of his departure Scheikron made a chance visit to a book store on the public square, the proprietor of which is among his acquaintances. He mentioned the fact that he was about to leave the city and, in a conversation with a small party of gentlemen as sembled, recounted some of his experiences. part of his life has been spent in the land of Wanten-A DRUG CLERK BY ONE OF part of his life has been spent in the land of the kaiser. He learned his vocation in Hamburg, probably the greatest center in the world for dealers in wild animals, and he has been employed in a large number of zoological gardens and by many circus proprictors. He is of medium height and slender build. In speaking of him, however, one of Scheikron's auditors said that part of his power lay in his eyes. They were dark and very piercing, he said, and when Scheikron grew earnest they flashed in a way that, it was conjectured, would be very effective when the "lion was a lashing of his tail. Scheikron said when a young man applied in Hamburg as a lion tamer he was immediately led to a cage of wild beasts to learn how they would act in his presence. If they displayed a desire to seize him the young man's application was rejected, but if they shrank from him or remained passive he was considered worthy of additional Scheikron said that immediately after Schoikron said that immediately after the arrival of any sort of animal from the jungles or forests it was the duty of the tamer to enter the cage. The fact is appreciated that the first venture of the tamer into the cage is attended with serious danger, and it is argued that it may as well be encountered in the beginning. In ontering the cage the tamer is armed with a heavy knife and revolvers, that he may be able to defend himself if the beast should pass other safeguards in its efforts to spring pass other safeguards in its efforts to spring upon him. The other safeguards are two in number. The first one that almost invariably proves effective is to have a circle of men surround the cage. They are armed with long iron rods, red hot at the ends, which are interposed between the man and the animal when the latter is about to spring. A sliding gate is also arranged so that it may be showed in the way of the animal if it shows a disposition to disregard the hot irons.

In Schalk rod, artimation the

In Scheikron's estimation the taming of tigers, leopards; and panthers is by far the most dangerous feature of his calling. He said that no matter how long they had been in captivity they could never be trusted. For the lions, however, he expressed admiration, and he related the story of a lion that had saved his life. Scheikron said that in entering the cage containing a number of animals one day he slipped and fell to his knees. He recovered himself immediately, but not before a tiger had sprung upon him. A young iton that had been his especial pet always occupied a ceition behind him, and on that occasion befriended him by engaging in a conflict with the tiger, and causing the latter to lose interest in the vatural on Schelkron. He said that he had always been careful, substituted at lossing the said that he had always been careful, substituted at lossing the said that he had always been careful, substituted at lossing the said that he had always been careful, substituted at lossing to said the said that he had always been careful. and aside from that experience had had no parrow escapes. - Cieveland Leader.

come Curious Rainbows. Professor Tyndall has described various ways of producing artificial rainbows by means of electric light and artificial raist, the bows themselves being almost, if not wholly, circular in form. Dr. Fleming and others recently witnessed a natural rainow of circular form from the summit of Glydr-Vach, Wales. Standing on the pin-nacle and looking into the valley where ies the lakelet, Liyn Idwal, the spectators saw their shadows projected on the mist, and surrounding the head of each were two concentric rainbows, completely circular. The colors of the inner bow were in the crder of the primary bow, while those of the outer circle were completely reversed. During the whole time of observation the sun was shining brightly to the backs of the observers. -St. Louis Republic.
